TER

The Total Expense Ratio (TER) for this portfolio/ class of participatory interest cannot be accurately determined. The TER of this class of participatory interest / portfolio will be higher than the quoted service charge of the manager.

Objective

The investment objective of the Plexus Sprinter Fund of Funds is to seek to secure higher than average growth of capital for its investors. The generation of income is of secondary importance.

Mandate

The Plexus Sprinter Fund of Funds is a balanced prudential fund of funds and will comply with regulations controlling retirement funds (Regulation 28).

The investment objective will be achieved by making investments which are expected to show higher than average growth. The Plexus Sprinter Fund of Funds will invest predominantly in a range of equity, bond, money market, fixed interest, property and other permissible Collective Investment Scheme portfolios, which have the potential of above average growth. The portfolio's exposure to other portfolios with an equity nature will vary between 60% and 75%.

Performance benchmark

Performance is measured against CPI + 7% (before costs) over rolling 60-month periods.

Comments

Global stock markets took a much needed breather in January. The turnaround in the 10-month upward trend (since March 2009) came in mid-January and was sparked by China where government had initiated measures to cool down the economy. This reignited investors' concerns regarding the extent and sustainability of the still fragile global economic recovery, and risk aversion returned to the markets. The MSCI World Index declined by 4,2% and the MSCI Emerging Markets Index by 5,7% in US dollars.

Risk aversion resulted in a flight to US treasuries, with the US dollar strengthening and bond yields in the US dropping. The USA government 30-year bond yielded a total return of 3,0% for January, but the return from global bonds was somewhat more subdued due to the stronger dollar. We continue to believe that global bond yields are in a rising trend and that this asset class is therefore not offering value at present.

The strength of the US dollar continued into the new year, reaching a six-month high against the euro on the back of greater confidence by the Federal Reserve in the economic recovery. The dollar was also stronger against the British pound but lost ground against the yen.

A strong US dollar put pressure on commodities during January, with the CRB Index losing 6,3% and Brent Crude 8,3%. The gold price held up relatively well in the face of a strong dollar.

The FTSE/JSE All Share Index could not escape the negative investor sentiment and yielded a total return of -3,5% for the month in line with other emerging markets. Financials, however, managed to buck the trend, yielding a total return of 1,2%. The SA Industrial Index yielded a return of -2,7%. Mining shares (-6,8%) and gold shares (-8,4%) took a beating on the back of lower commodity prices. As far as market cap performance is concerned, small (-0,5%) and mid-caps (-2,1%) once again outperformed large caps (-3,8%).

The SA bond market yielded a flat return for the month of January. The shorter end of the market outperformed cash, which yielded 0,6%, but long-dated bonds (12+ years) ended up on a negative return of -0,9%.

The rand declined against all the major currencies during January mainly on the back of heightened risk aversion.

Collective Investment Schemes in Securities (CIS) are generally medium to long term investments. The value of participatory interests may go down as well as up and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future. CIS are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. A schedule of fees and charges and maximum commissions is available on request from the company/scheme. Commission and incentives may be paid and if so, would be included in the overall costs. Forward pricing is used. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of underlying international investments to go up or down. This fund may be closed.
